

Trance 7 (Journey)

We welcome all of you into our world of love, for you are all on a journey, a journey of discovery. You are learning about yourself and what you are capable of. It is not the destination that is important, it is the journey itself, for as your journey is segmented into days, each day has its experience and the value of your journey is in the experience, and what you extract from that experience.

Open your mind to new ways of thinking, to attitudes that are not familiar to you, for in doing so you take yourself forward. Tread gently on your journey, do not force your way, for your footsteps are guided. Allow yourself to be guided by those forces that you cannot see and try not to allow the earthly mind to have its way all the time. For those that force their way eventually hit a brick wall and leave unsightly marks. Whereas those who tread gently and wisely, leave behind them something that is far greater and more beautiful than what they found when they first tread the path.

Inside all of you is a great power, a great love, a great energy. But your material world which is but an illusion, can suppress that energy if you allow it. Use your imagination and imagine that great love inside you, that power to shine brightly from your heart and allow that energy to energise your whole being, not just your mind but every layer of your soul. You all play such an important part in the great plan, none of you is insignificant. As you sit in your circle, you are all equal, you are all one but you are our equals also, for we all have Divine love within us, we were all created out of Divine love. Whilst in your world selfishness may be dominant and everyone seeks to gain for their selves, they work for themselves and reluctantly work as a group only when they have to. But little do they know that if you all work together for each other, with each other, for the same goal, for the benefit of all, how much happier would you be? How much richer would you be? The society in which you live is based on the wrong principals much has been lost in the past. We do not expect great changes for we ask that you think and expand your conscious awareness of what is possible, not only within your society but also within yourself and within your families, for it starts with you.

Don't think in terms of changing the world for there is a limit as to how much your world will change. For your world will always be a school. Think about changing yourself, the way you view things, your own thought patterns. How do you see your life going, spiritually, and how will that affect your life materially.

Change is always difficult when you are surrounded by an environment that is reluctant to change, where ignorance dominates. Someone has to hack through a new path, someone has to try and set the example, someone has to say the words without fear of recrimination and someone has to be a pioneer.

Take our love, add it to yours and allow that energy within you to give you the strength to take those necessary and important steps forward and know you are always loved. We surround all of you with our love.
